BAR HARBOR, Me., August 30.-Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives, delivered a speech here

this afternoon which was in part as fol-

"Under the rules of the democratic party Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey and Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana were at the Baltimore convention nominated as our standard bearers in the Impending contest. They are men of high character and democrats are united in their support. This is as it should be, for the cnief work in hand is to rescue the government from republican maladministration. As I have already said we have not what the British have -'a responsible government'-the nearest approach thereto which we can have under the Constitution is to have House, Senate and President all of the same political faith. Hence I am anxious to see the democrats capture all three legisative branches of the government so works well, the people will recognize the fact and reward us. If it proves bad in practice, the people will throw us out, as "If, however, all three branches of the faith, neither. party gets an opportunity to try its theory. We have recently witnessed at Washington a spectacle of a democratic House passing good billsthe high cost of living and which would have gone far toward relieving the peorepeat that we want House, Senate and President all three to be democratic.

Acting in the Present.

"So far in this campaign the two political criticisms leveled against Gov. Wilson are: First, that he has had little experience in public life; second, that his controls thirty-three manufacturing opinion on certain subjects have changed plants in New England and New York in the lapse of time. As to the latter, state. It has a capitalization of $75,- while consistency is ranked among the 000,000, and employs 35,000 operatives though inconsistent, than to be consistent though wrong. The question is not what Gov. Wilson or any other man thought ago, but what he thinks now. We are acting in the living present, for people now in this country and for the millions yet to be-not groping in the dead past. "As to his lack of experience as a public man, I may be permitted to suggest to those most concerned that Gen. Taylor had no experience whatsoever, never having voted even a single time, and that Gen. Arthur had very little experience. It was universally conceded that those Presidents discharged their duties as chief executives of the nation faithfully and well. Everybody admits that Abraham All agree that he was one of the four greatest. He was for years professor in famous institutions of learning, and presidential scholar he will rank with Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, John Quincy Adams and James A. Garfield."

Speaks on the Tariff.

'n his speech at Rockland last night Speaker Clark confined his address to the tariff. He said in part: "History demonstrates beyond a'l question the fact that in a country whose institutions are based on suffrage the government will be a government by parties, or as Mr. Speaker Cannon is fond of putting it, 'by majorities.' It does not make a particle of difference whether we want it that way or not; that is the way it is and the way it always will be. "At the present time at least five parties are in the field with candidates for the presidency. Each of these parties ing. The woman, with the baby in her

has formulated and published a platform of principles, which it proposes to enact into law if it gets the chance. "What is a platform, anyway? It ought to be a plain and honest statement of what those who make it intend to do if they are given the power to legislate. It ought to be, not mere y a contrivance to get in on, but a thing to stand on after the victory is won. It ought to be net merely a device to use ouring the campaign for the purpose of catching votes, but should set forth the serious intentions of its framers.

"While the platforms discuss and refer to a multitude of things, some of great tance, the American public is formed on such a plan that it will not seriously consider more than one or two issues simu'tanecusly. Both Gov. Wilson and topic of thought in the minds of the sons were rescued in an unconscious convoters of the land. Col. Roosevelt in his dition. "Barring for the present Col. Roosevelt's scheme of settlement, the position of the two great parties may be succinctly stated in this way: The democrats are in favor of a tariff for revenue only; the republicans are in favor of a tariff for protection. Upon this question the platforms are explicit. In the tariff plank of all the democratic platforms the idea of
